

AIT becomes One Q's UK competency centre

One Q, Danish developers of cloud print management solutions, have appointed AIT as their exclusive distributors and competency centre for the UK.

Leeds, West Yorkshire (PRWEB UK) 10 January 2018 -- One Q's competency centres are key knowledge and support hubs for One Q's cloud based secure print solutions. There are currently 3 centres including the UK, providing technical and pre-sales expertise for customers and partners as well as installation and ongoing support along with marketing help for UK channel partners.

One Q's cloud print management solution is supported by Microsoft Azure and provides organisations with a feature rich print solution, which offers a highly secure, yet simple way to manage print and copy requirements with all the benefits associated with cloud solutions.

Morten Sorenson, chief executive office of Danish based One Q says "We are delighted to announce AIT as our UK distributor and competency centre, AIT have over 25 years' experience in print management and are without doubt experts in this field. They have the skilled workforce needed to be one of only 3 competency centres. We are confident that One Q's British customers and channel partners will benefit from having a competency centre in the UK."

Alan Christie, business development director at AIT said "I am pleased One Q have recognised AIT's expertise and commitment to the print management industry by appointing us as their UK competency centre. One Q's cloud print management solution is a natural addition to our product portfolio, offering innovative technology at a lower total cost of ownership than more traditional print management solutions. 2018 is going to be an exciting time for both AIT and One Q."
